

Can't run from love

A young man at odds with his father returns home when his younger brother runs away. But his father is a criminal mastermind and his home town is a complicated place. Will he escape the path his family have mapped out for him?

A touching love story in a compelling criminal world. Dutiful son Barzan returns to Mardin in Eastern Turkey where his criminal father has suffered a heart attack. On the flight he meets Yasemin, a prosecutor on the trail of Barzan's father. They fall in love, not realising that they will find themselves on opposite sides of a battle to come. But hearts follow their own rules and Mardin is a lawless place.

Can't run from love is a fantastic love story that plays out in a magical setting, combining edge-of-seat thriller elements with compelling family drama.

The characters are torn between duty and desire, home and exile. Following your heart is never simple, but for Barzan and Yasemin, it could be deadly.
